NEWSLETTER – November-December 2019-January 2020 (No. 11-12-01)

WORD BY THE AMBASSADOR

Dear friends of the South African Embassy,

We are proud to share with you the latest issue of our Embassy newsletter. As the end of the last year and the beginning of the new one were equally full of interesting events, we have decided to combine the past three months into a combined, colourful and complex newsletter. You will find this issue loaded with news from within the grounds of our Embassy as well as from outside, such as the regional visits or the numerous interesting events we participated in, such as the annual Christmas Festival and many more!

I wish you all a prosperous and peaceful 2020. Enjoy your reading!

PRESIDENT OUTLINES PILLARS OF SA'S AU CHAIRSHIP

President Cyril Ramaphosa highlighted the priorities at the African Heads of Mission Conference

President Cyril Ramaphosa highlighted the priorities at the African Heads of Mission Conference, taking place at the Department of International Relations and Cooperation's offices in Pretoria, on Tuesday, 28 January 2020. On 8 and 9 February 2020, Heads of State and Government will convene in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, for the 33rd Ordinary Session of the AU Assembly where South Africa will assume Chairship. South Africa previously held the AU Chairship in 2002, at the seminal session that officially launched the AU. "At the top of our agenda as Chair must be the deepening of economic integration. This is a historic moment that we must seize. "Together with our fellow African countries, we must implement the African Continental Free Trade Area (AfCFTA) Agreement with purpose and determination," said the President.

Another pillar of South Africa's agenda as AU Chair is the empowerment of women, with a specific emphasis on promoting financial and economic inclusion and combating gender-based violence. "On women's financial and economic inclusion, South Africa will work with the AU's Women, Gender and Development Directorate, which is responsible for leading, guiding, defending and coordinating the AU's efforts on gender equality and development," the President said.

As South Africa's Chairship coincides with the AU's aspiration of "Silencing of the Guns in 2020", South Africa will champion good governance on the continent. "Specific focus will need to be given to two intractable conflicts on the continent – in Libya and South Sudan – where South Africa is already actively involved in seeking solutions.

PRESIDENT CALLS FOR PEACEFUL RESOLUTION OF US-IRAN TENSION

President Cyril Ramaphosa has held discussions with President Hassan Rouhani of the Islamic Republic of Iran to express South Africa's interest in a peaceful and just resolution of the tension between Iran and the United States (US). President Ramaphosa placed a telephone call to his counterpart on Thursday, 9 January 2020, during his visit to Kimberley in the Northern Cape where the President was leading the 108th anniversary celebrations of the African National Congress. President Ramaphosa's engagement with President Rouhani was informed by South Africa's principled view that conflicts should be resolved through political dialogue rather than the use of force. The engagement was also framed by South Africa's role as a non-permanent member of the United Nations Security Council (UNSC) and Incoming Chair of the African Union. President Ramaphosa conveyed to President Rouhani South Africa's condolences at the assassination of the Iranian Military Commander, Major-General Qasem Soleimani, in a US military strike which targeted General Soleimani on Iraqi soil on Friday, 3 January 2020.

SPRINGBOKS NOMINATED FOR TOP LAUREUS AWARD

The news was confirmed recently as the lists of final nominations were revealed by Laureus.

The Springboks have been nominated in the Team of the Year Category at the 2020 Laureus World Sports Awards to be held in Berlin next month. The Boks, who won the 2019 Rugby World Cup in Japan, will be up against tough competition from Jürgen Klopp's Champions League-winning Liverpool side, the US women's football team who won the women's World Cup, six-time Formula One world champions Mercedes-AMG Petronas, the first Canadian team to win the NBA Championship, the Toronto Raptors, and two-time FIBA World Cup winners, Spain's men's basketball team. The Springboks won the category at the 2008 Laureus Awards having triumphed at the 2007 World Cup the year prior.

Number of foreign workers doubles in ten years

The Czech economy is increasingly dependent on foreign labour. According to figures released by the Czech Statistics Office, foreign workers made up 13 percent of the labour force last year. In 2010 it was just 6 percent. In the course of the past decade their number has more than doubled. The record-low unemployment in recent years has seen firms scrambling to attract foreign workers and putting pressure on the government to increase its quotas on foreign workers from countries outside of the European Union. As of November 2019 the government doubled the annual quota for workers from Ukraine to 40 thousand people. Traditionally the majority of foreign workers in the country are Ukrainians, Slovaks and Vietnamese nationals, but in recent years the country has attracted a growing number of workers from Russia, Poland, Bulgaria and Romania. At present there are 646,000 foreign workers officially registered in the country, of which 290,000 have permanent residency, 275,000 are here on a temporary basis and the rest are foreigners who have been granted or are seeking asylum in the country. In addition to those, there are estimated to be tens of thousands more who are part of the grey economy.

The best-paid foreign workers are Slovaks who make on average CZK 38,868 a month, at a time when the average gross monthly salary in the Czech Republic is CZK 33,697. This is because Slovaks usually come to study at Czech universities, decide to settle here and find well-paid jobs. Ukrainians, who are frequently employed in the construction industry make on average CZK 27,000 a month.

Although interest in getting skilled foreign workers remains high, some economists say that in the not too distant future, with the slowing of the economy, the interest in foreign workers may temporarily wane. Many are employed on a seasonal or temporary basis and would be among the first to be hit in the event of lay-offs. For the present time, they would still be able to find employment elsewhere. In December labour offices posted 341,000 vacancies.

I'm happy I opened door for other European players, says new Hall of Fame inductee Václav Nedomanský

Retired forward Václav Nedomanský has become the second Czech to be inducted into ice hockey's Hall of Fame. A member of the Czechoslovak world championship winning team in 1972, was the first player from behind the Iron Curtain to defect and play in the NHL. Nedomanský joins goaltender Dominik Hašek, who is the only other Czech to receive this accolade. Václav Nedomanský, known as Big Ned, was inducted into the NHL Hall of Fame at a ceremony in Toronto on Monday night, exactly 42 years after he played his first game in the league for Detroit Red Wings. His induction plaque was presented by Frank Mahovlich, who was inducted into the Hockey Hall of Fame Class of 1981 and who befriended Nedomanský from the moment he arrived in Canada in 1974.
